Sri Lanka's tourism rebounds strongly

Reaching half a million arrival milestone in under three months

Sri Lanka's tourism sector is experiencing a remarkable resurgence. The country has already surpassed the 500,000 visitor mark in just the first quarter of 2024, with March alone contributing over 100,000 arrivals. This signifies a significant acceleration compared to last year, when the same milestone wasn't reached until mid-May.

This impressive surge underscores the industry's strong momentum and its trajectory towards robust growth.

Sri Lanka ranked No 1 for the best places for solo female travel in 2024

Solo female travel is having a moment – according to a recent survey, over half of Gen Z women would consider travelling abroad alone. That means more women than ever are heading off to far-flung destinations in search of new friends, different cultures and memorable experiences.

A few countries are known to be relatively safe and easy to navigate for women looking for an adventure, with well-trodden backpacker routes, friendly locals and the chance to meet new people – or spend some good quality alone time.

Sri Lanka has been named the No.1 best places for solo female travel.

Sri Lanka welcomes a travel boost as Thai Airways announces daily flights from April

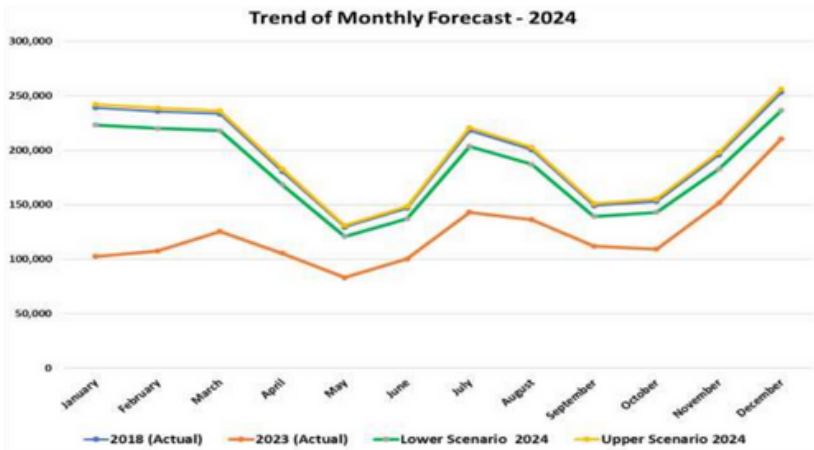

Sri Lanka's tourism industry is set for a further boost with the announcement that Thailand's national carrier, Thai Airways, will resume daily scheduled flights to Bandaranaike International Airport (BIA) starting April 1st, 2024. This exciting development comes as Sri Lanka experiences a surge in international arrivals, with the airport welcoming over 207,000 visitors in January and 218,000 in February of 2024.

Passengers flying with Thai Airways can expect top-notch service and seamless connections through Bangkok to over 60 destinations in 28 countries.
